We have learned a few things of late. Those that were talking tariff for revenue only are now whispering a foreign war we shall see American lives sacrificed without a determination to prevent it and to make the American name honored in the Democratic platform of 1912 that it was contrary to the Constitution of the United States to have a protective tariff. That was in effect—of course not in words, but the words mean simply this—they say, in effect, now that the European war has changed the Constitution of the United States.

There is room for extension of improvements in many directions except at the seaside. No extension in that direction of the number of available sites for homes is possible. NGELENO CALLED DEAREST; SUIT ON.

Husband Unger of Oakland Says His Wife was Too Friendly with Stephen Fullerton and R. A. Raymond, Both of Whom are Declared Expert Slush Writers.

ALLEGED INTERCEPTED LET-

TERS EXHIBITED.

OAKLAND, Aug. 8.—Mrs. Vera Unger called Stephen Fullerton of Los Angeles her "dearest" and vowed she would never forget him, according to a divorce complaint filed yesterday by Edward Unger, seronaut and balloonist, against his pretty young wife. Furthermore, charges the hus-band, who exhibits alleged inter-cepted letters, Fullerion was not the only one. Letters also were sent, he says, to R. A. Raymond of Los An-

In Raymond's mail, says the husband, there were these lines:
"My darling, I kiss your picture, dear."
"All my love and kisses."
"Hubby has no proof of anything yet."
"I am so tired, dearie, I wish you were here to hold me; then I would forget it like my toothache."
"I just kissed your dear, sweet picture."
"And that is not all," said Unger's attorney. The Fullerton letters, according to the complaint, disclose an attempt at "inside work."
"Can't you get my husband to let you play detective for him?" the wife is said to have suggested.
According to Unger, he once tried to get his wife away from Raymond, but Raymond and one Edward Hamrick beat him and sent him to the hospital for weeks.

Unger asks the custody of their two children.

Avoid Summer Colds

and Pneumonia Colds and pneumonia are dangerous at all times but doubly so in summertime. Weakened, overheated bodies exposed to sudden chills are likely victims. A reliable tonic stimulant such as Duffy's Malt often fortifies the body against the dangerous germs. Note Mr. Gittleman's remarks:

CHIEF SVENTS OF TRETERDAY.

(At Home:) Wall street shook off its period of several days' depression, and as a ceult stocks mounted to higher levels, with hipping issues especially active in the day's lealings. The total collections of taxes and licenses in this city for the year ending June 30 amount to $7,051,543.98. That is an immense sum of money and it is up to the officials of the city to spend it judictously. It represents financial pinching on the part of thousands of people.

The leaders of the political movement backed by the suffragists of the various States have given President Wilson a few days to declare himself on the question of woman suffrage. Unless he favora it, the votes of 3,000,000 women will be cast against him at the coming election. Speak for yourself, Woodrow!

A New DEFINITION.

A an lowa judge has decided that a man is a habitual drunkard who becomes even moderately intoxicated when opportunity is presented. That is an awful slam at the fellow who puts his feet on the rail of the bar and stands at attention until somewody asks him to nominate the brand of his family disturbance.

T IS DIFFERENT NOW.

For the first time in many years, the Democrats have entered the national campaign without any agreement to "bust the trusta." Heretofore the air has been full of yowls about the wickedness of Wall attent, and a tear, for the severe of the plain "peopul;" but we hear and see noth-ing of it now. The bunk has seen its day.

NATIONAL CALAMITY. A NATIONAL CALAMITY.

The country lies within the shadow of a universal strike to be inaugurated by the railroad men, including engineers, firmen, conductors and trainmen, a large percentage of these employees having voted to quit work unless certain demands in wages were conceded. It will be hoped that some amicable way out can be found. To inaugurate a strike at this time, paralyzing traffic from one end of the country to the other, would be criminal.

THE WORLD MOVES.

Tollowing the typewriter, the telephone and the dictagraph, the movie film is now admitted as evidence before a jury, without objection. It occurred in a case where the defense showed the athletic movements of a man who was supposed to have been saddy injured. But the jury disagreed. There are a lot of skeptics in this world. Perhaps some of the jurors were film fans who had seen the wonderful trick work in the films. Seeing is not always believing—in the movies.

Chester Rowell's attempt to foist Gov. Johnson on the Republicans of the State as chairman of the Hughes meeting in San Prancisco is an impertinence, and his telegram to Chairman Willcox, attacking Francis V. Recaling, is masty. Of course Mr. Keesling, the head of the Republican organization in California, would not listen to such a thing as letting the most victous of anti-Republicans preside at a Republican anti-Republicans preside at a Republican meating. Chester, did you think that Keceling was either crary or asleep at the switch? Chester, will you please crawl un-der the sofa and make a noise like a rug?

If Charles Evans Hughes had been President he would not have rushed through the Simmons-Underwood tariff law, dealing with a question of which he had only an academic knowledge. But for the impetus given business in this country, by the war, the nation would today be laboring under a universal business depression. As it was there were thousands of idle freight cars standing on the tracks before the declaration of hostilities, and before the declaration of hostilities, and there were but few mills running in New England. Now the claim is that the deactive tariff legislation has brought out the "full dinner pail." What super-

JUDGE BORDWELL'S WITHDRAWAL.
In withdrawing from the contest for the Republican nomination for United States enator, the Hon, Walter Bordwell has done what The Times has always believed he would find it in his heart to do. The Times was confident that he would do it because of its belief in Judge Bordwell himself—in the sturdiness of his character, the purity of his motives and the sincerity of his allesisnes to the Republican party. In other words, The Times was sanguine that he would do the right thing when it became clear to his political vision just what the right thing was. Judge Bordwell has fully justified this confidence. His letter of withdrawal is published in this issue of The Times and is all that such a letter should be—manly, candid, unreserved, straight to be—manly, candid, unreserved, straight to the point and handsome. It will, in the pub-lic estimation, add honor to an honored name and fame.

With the instincts of a patriot, Judge Bordwell has subordinated all personal con-sideration to the welfare of his party and his State. As the situation developed it be-came clear to him that should he stay in the field as a Republican opponent of Mr. Booth, party division would imperil party success and promote the cause of Hiram Johnson, the arch enemy in California of everything that is Republican. As Judge Bordwell says in his admirable letter, it was unthinkable for him to county such a position. in his admirable letter, it was unthinkable for him to occupy such a position. His action was prompt, effective, unselfish and magnanimous—and it insures the defeat of Gov. Johnson. With Bordwell out of the reckoning and working for Booth, as he promises to do, the triumph of Mr. Booth is as well assured as anything in the political future can be.

There is no mistaking the trend of political feeling in California. The people of this great State, who have suffered bitterly this great State, who have suffered bitterly from political mistakes, want to be represented in the United States Senate by a true and steadfast Republican, and not by a "Progressive" in a mask. They want for Senator a man identified and familiar with their interests and able to do battle for them. The State-wide Republican conference declared unanimously for Mr. Booth, and so far as the Republicans are concerned, his course is now clear. Judge Bordwell's letter will unify the party, strengthen its organization and reinforce its battle line. It was the one thing needful for the triumphant harmonizing of California Republicanism and the overthrow of the dynasty of King Hiram. Hallelujah!

CTRIKES AND GOVERNMENT OWNER-

SHIP.

If a steamship had run out of fuel and was in danger of being driven onto a rocky lee shore, it might be good policy to tear up the decks and cabin fixtures and feed every piece of available woodwork on board to the furnaces to keep up the seam pressure till the vessel had plowed its way back to the safety of the open seas. But the peril would have to be extreme to justify such measures. And the last state of that ship would be worse than the first.

This is a parallel, however, to the rigor-that ship would be worse than the first.

This is a parallel, however, to the rigorous treatment that Senator Norris of Nebraska would apply to our railroads to avert the danger of traffic tie-up in a future strike. He calls threatened troubles between railroad employers and employees the strongest argument in favor of government ownership. As a safeguard against the trying up of traffic through the action of labor-union officials he would so hopelessly disorganize that traffic that it hopelessly disorganize that traffic that it would take years of readjustment before the American public could expect to see its efficiency restored. And the last state of those railroads would be worse than agement to the dictation of labor-union of-ficials is the strongest argument in favor of government ownership, then that sothe eyes of all courageous citizens. No true American is going to quit under fire.

Nor would a transfer of railroad management from highly-trained and speciallyagement from highly-trained and specially-fitted directors to amateur politicians and political vote gatherers prevent the labor unions from pressing a campaign of aggression. Having been given an inch they would proceed with confident alacrity to demand an eil. The "Damoclean sword" that the Nebraska Senator sees ever handing over the traffic of this country would descend with a wallop and chop off the head of the traveling and shipping public. On the continent of Europe government ownership of railroads has had ample time to prove its worth. Any Afferican who to prove its worth. Any American who has traveled on their trains or has studied their unscientific traffic rates and the in-adequacy of their accommodatons would never wish to see American railroad serv-ice put back to the European level.

It is true that in France the government was able to squash a general strike on the was able to squash a general strike on the railroads in 1912. But it was done by methods we could not adopt except by an amendment to the Constitution. Seventy per cent. of the French railroad workers were army reservist men and these were promptly called to the colors and sent out under military orders to keep the tracemoving on the government roads. If the fear of a general strike is an argument for a change in the management of American railroads, as an adjunct to of American railroads, as an adjunct to government ownership it points to the neessity of universal military service. But for neither purposes is it an argument to be taken seriously.

Think of a sweeping measure, calculated to upset the country for years to come, urged on the American people as a policy of fear! No, we prefer to trust to a single hair to hold the Damoclean sword in place that Senator Norris sees poised so menacingly over the traffic of American railroads. If necessary we can braid a number of hairs into a stout strand to secure the strike aword from falling—a better alter-native than destroying the railroads from without to save them from being damaged

M We have heard a lot of talk about the kind of coffee that "mother used to make," and the pies that mother used to make," and the pies that mother used to hake, but where is the poet to sing of the beauties of the biscuit that mother used to bake and the gravy that she could always be depended on to furnish? The man who loveth not biscuit and gravy has something wrong in his upper story.

W HAT IS INDUSTRIAL PREEDOM?
The proverb that "the world owes me a living" is one that idle men, and men who engage in disreputable occupations, are accustomed to quote. If the world owes you a living does it not equally owe a living to every other man? "And if to everyone," said Hallidie, "by the sweat of whose brow should that living be made?" The world owes you nothing, and the most that you have a right to claim from society is an opportunity to make a living.

That living cannot be made except by labor—labor of the sinewy arm, labor of the burning brain. Man's primal home was the abode of all loveliness. The heavens were his roof, and never was any so curiously ceiled and painted; the earth was his floor, and never was any so richly inlaid; the shadow of the trees was his retirement, under them were his dining-rooms, and never were any so finely hung. The air was balmy and loaded with fragrance; there was no gloomy background Here, amid this scene of beauty, aisled above and pillared about he was to live and labor. "If our protoparents, with the light of immortality streaming through every avenue of their souls, were called upon to labor, then we may rest assured the great Author of our being intended we should toil with head and hands."

Everything made by man from a hair pin to a 50,000-ton steamer is the product of labor. Labor gathers the fleeces from cotton plant, and, with humming spindle and shifting shuttle, transforms them into a hundred articles of use and beauty Labor with glittering axe lays low the screaming under the gang-saws to be made into material for the construction of palaces and cottages. Labor excavates the sombre ore from the depths of earth and hammers produces ponderous rails and

Protection of the rights and interests of labor should be the primal duty of legislatures and courts—protection against for-eign competition by means of a Republican tariff, protection against domestic anarchy by means of enforcement of in-iustrial freedom.

The principle of industrial freedom was given forceful expression in the chart of our republic in the words, "All men have an equal right to life, liberty and the pursui of happiness." Abraham Lincoin defined more closely these words of the declara-tion when he said: "It may be that every man is not the equal of every other man; but every man should have the right to be the equal of any man, if he can.

Industrial freedom means that labor is as much a commodity as potatoes. The seller has a right to get all that he can means, and the purchaser has a right to buy it as cheaply as he can—by legitimate and lawful means. The employer has no egal or moral right to compel a man to work for him for $3 per day when the man prefers to lie on the grass rather than work for less than $4 per day. The workman has no right to dynamite, or boycott, or picket the employer who refuses to advance his wages, or to maim or menace the workman who accepts the job that the striker has abandoned.

By this simple declaration of the rights and duties of employer and employed, every man with a conscience and an honest purpose ought to be willing to abide and every other man should be forced to musically, as a result of the past year and half's activities, to invite extensive criticism emanating from the locale of Chicago. This is despite the fact that the critic, writing for the Musical Leader, declares at the outset that, except for the people who live here and "who are obliged to believe that the much-boosted city is the greatest in the world, no one ever takes it seriously so far as music is concerned." However, the publication in question regarded us seri-ously enough to devote nearly a column of its editorial page primarily to our welfare in one issue and secondarily in another. In that is criticised; in the latter it is the prize opera "Pairyland."

"No Los Angeles manager," our critic says, "would dare risk presenting a local artist in an important concert or perform-ance, as was shown last year when all Los artists engaged for the production of the $10,000 prize opera 'Fairyland,' which had a few performances and then was shelved like so many other prize compositions." It is not our impression that the Chicago Op-era Company would make a practice of preenting local artists in their principal re In fact there are few opera companies in the country who have reached that stage where they would feel secure in making up their forces entirely of American singers, desirable as this might be for the upbuildment of art in this country. "No one ever neard of an artist native of Los Angeles receiving recognition in Los Angeles before a reputation had been established else-where." There might be mentioned several exceptions to this all too arbitrary stateparent—quite as many exceptions, in fact, comparatively speaking, as Chicago or any other city in this country might show. Indeed, constantly increasing encouragement is given to local artists through the medium of clubs and other local organizations to display their talent and ability, and while these may not be successful in every respect, they are at least serving to bring degree of recognition to the local artist. The conditions which the writer in the Musical Leader describes are more or less redicable of the formative characteristics of the country at large. When Chicago was the size of Los Angeles, in fact until a few years ago, she was much less advanced than this city. Los Angeles has enjoyed the penefits of a symphony orchestra nearly as long as Chicago, and given a few more years may furnish an opera company that will compare quite favorably with the east.

you want to come out here and get next to the election game, and after that the sailing is dead easy. You work when you feel like it; loaf when you want to and eat three or four times a day. A brewery agent has nothing on me. You won't even have to wait to be a citizen before you can break into the prune circle. I'm in the petition business on the side. What do you think of that? All the capital you need is a four-all the capital you need is a fountain pen and a little guff and there you are. Every man you meet is a prospect and you draw down all the way from a dime to a dollar for his sig. Every guy what runs for office has to have a petition before his name can go on the ballot and they've got so used to hiring signatures that nobody thinks of passing a petition for nothing. I've got a class of about 800 voters jollied along so that they will put their John Hancock to almost anything I hand 'em to sign and so when anybody has a petition to circulate they come to me for my bunch and I agree to deliver the lot for $100. It takes about two weeks' work to round up the lot, but sometimes I have two or three petitions at once and so I make double time and all the while I'm swelling my list and adding new prospects. This initiative and referendum is great stuff for a side line. When some folks want legislation they can't put across with the City Council they start an initiative petition to have the thing put on the ballot for a regular or special election. Sometimes we can get a fat price for signatures and sometimes we contract to deliver the required number of names for a lump price. You bet your life we try and draw down all our pay before the list is checked over by the Register. One of the boys got careless and took to copying down some names from the registration lists without bothering to see the voters. He came near going over the road, but he's all right now. You can use the city directory on some of these petitions, but if they have to be passed on official it doesn't do to take many chances. It ain't necessary, anyhow. If you're handy with the gab you can round 'em up without much trouble.

The referendum petitions are hot money-makers sometimes. Supposing the Legislature at Sacramento passes some law sandbagging some of the corporations. Before the law can be put in force it can be held up by a referendum petition and so we hustle out and get the signatures pronto at two bits a head. I've got my crowd sized up so

The way I started this thing was in organizing a civic voters' league. That doesn't mean much, but it sounds all right. I'm the president and my partner is secretary. The members are all those who sign our petitions. When we hear of a man likely to become a candidate for office, we get word to him that the Civic Voters' League had learned of his probable election and would like to ask him a few questions: Is he in favor of good government, and is he in favor of lower taxes? The one thousand members of the Civic Voters' League would hear from him before they give their final indorsement.

Do we hear from him? Most times we do. Of course, he is not only in favor of good government and lower taxes, but he will see that we get them. Son we get them. Sometimes I make it handy to go and see the guy in his office. I tell him what a bunch we have and then he tells me he needs some signatures to his petition and would like to have a husky friend would like to have a husky friend like me to help him out. Would I do it? I would, and of course I get so much per for expense money be-sides the regular schedule of names. If he insists on meeting and talking to the league we let him go ahead. We can always get up a meeting when we have to and we make the candidate pay for the hall. Honestly, Bill, I don't see how some of these politicians stand for the rough work some of these fellows put across. I aim to deliver the goods myself, but there's glaks here pulling down $5 and $10 a day that are not even sure of their own vote. are not even sure of their own vote.

If you were here Bill, and are still able to put up a fair game of talk we could run a nice, refined business and get all the money there is in the country. We have seven or eight elections every year and petitions and candidates all the time. Come as soon as you can, as I have a hunch that the next Legislature may put the whole system on the blink and knock out the present

LET THE DANISH WEST IN-DIES HELP THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

BUTED TO THE TIMES BY HON, CHARLES H. SHERRILL Chairman, Committee on Foreign Relations of the Chamber of Com-merce of the United States; For-merly United States Minister to Argentina; Author of "Moderniz-ing the Monroe Doctrine.

F WE will make an honest endeavor to realize the Monroe doctrine in its full scope, and if we will seek to interpret Pan-Americanism in its true modern light, icanism in its true modern light, three services of immense importance—indeed, of transcendent importance—can be performed for the welfare of the people of one hemisphere—our hemisphere.

Those services have impressed me as a great triangle of benefits, attainable perhaps at the cost of some of our prejudices and some of our wealth, yet enormously outweighing in their gains whatever we might be called upon to give in exchange. It lies well within the scope of a wise, far-sighted concept of Pan-Americanism to utilize, for the prevention of future conflicts between all the republics of this hemisphere, the machinery of control made possible by the mediation, between the United States and Mexico, of the A.B.C. countries. "It is entirely true that calm reason and moral force, effective as they can be, and have been, in restraining people from war, may not always he able in the end calm reason and moral force, effective as they can be, and have been, in restraining, people from war, may not always be able in the end to compel peace and neighborliness upon a nation suffering from its internal disorders. But the principle of a common mediation offered to any one people, which underlay the friendly, kindly A.B.C. mediation of the recent past, is available for the future. The responsibility for making the initiative therein must continue to rest largely upon the United States, not merely because it was this country which set the original, invaluable precedent of acceptance of the mediation, but because we have deliberately accepted that responsibility by making the Monroe doctrine the corner-stone of our foreign policy. It is important to record, in this connection, that the plan of joint intervention in this hemisphere alone, made by me January 9, 1913, fifteen months prior to the proffer of mediation by Argentically unanimous indorement by over 300 papers of Latin America. And here is to be found one newer, larger, modern aspect to the Monroe doctrine, for it limits to this hemisphere the responsibility of its own policing and makes needless for phere the responsibility of its own policing and makes needless for that purpose any interference by Eu-

that purpose any interference by Europe.

We may well regard the base of a great triangle such a guarantee of peace in this hemisphere as is offered by a policy of joint mediation by Pan-American powers in Pan-American difficulties. The easterly side of the triangle can be secured by so completing the Monroe doctrine as to eliminate permanently the more probable causes of future friction with Europa. Europe today owes much to the United States and continues to ask more. If we were now to ask, in return, of England, France, Holland and Denmark relinquishment of sovereignty over their few remaining possessions in the Americas it would, at worst, not be an asking of the impossible. The three Gulanss—British, French and Dutch—British Honduras, the Danish islands of the West Indies, France's Martinique and Guadeloupe, all fail to show any such progress as has been apparent in self-governed communities like Costa Rica and Guatemala, while any comparison with the advances made by Porto Rico under American ownerparison with the advances made by Porto Rico under American ownership are out of the question. Indeed, these overseas possessions of the European powers represent a constant annual loss as the price of sovereignty. Strategically those overseas possessions may represent an asset of value to their owners but there is only one country against seas possessions may represent an asset of value to their owners but there is only one country against which that strategic advantage can be directed—the United States. If, in an endeavor to make impossible any future quarrel with Great Britain, this country should seek to eliminate a material factor for the prosecution of the quarrel, surely the proposal will deserve to be received in no unfriendly spirit. That it would be our duty to ourselves to retain those islands which are so many keys to our security must be apparent. But we would be acquitted of desire for aggrandizement it we should, by gift of the Guianas, aid in the reconstitution of that statesmanlike project of Bolivar—the confederation into a New Granada of Venezuela, Colombia and Ecuador and, by the return to Argentina of the Fakland Islands, make Pan-America waters genuinely neutral. This plan for strengthening the map of Latin America is fully elaborated in my "Modernizing the Monroe Doctrine."

If, to erect the westerly side of this triangle for peace, we would elaborated in my "Modernizing the Monroe Doctrine."

If, to erect the westerly side of this triangle for peace, we would make a sincere attempt to realize that our Monroe doctrine cannot be one-sided and effective, if we will comprehend that Asia has a right to such a doctrine of its own fully equal to ours, we could end, out-of-hand, the danger of war from beyond the Pacific. The Monroe doctrine is not unilateral. When it bids other nations mind their own business it lays upon us a similar duty with respect to their affairs, felleving us, logically and wisely, from any office towards China other than the simple assertion of our rights under the "most favored" nation clause of our treaties. And if we could trade our heavy burden of tion clause of our treaties. And if the Philippines for the European possessions to the south of us plus our emancipation of the Panama Canal from the cripping and dangerous limitations held by Great Britain and accepted by us under the monumental mistake of the Hay-Paunceforte treaty—would we not achieve for all the Americas that freedom from extraneous interferfreedom from extraneous interfer-ence which has been the goal of our Monroe doctrine for the past hun-dred years.

How good it seems—once more to have a solid Republican party in California! And what a great work is cell out for us, brethren!

But the critics lashed him so that he was finally stung into action. He trained down for the Leonard fight, went in and mixed it with the boy, and the others did at Vernon.

And that's probably just what Charley White will do at Colorado Springs. So it's lucky for the East Weish fought Leonard.

The Genevieve put up her spinaker and made splendid time in the windward leg and continued to have a big lead throughout the race. The second stake was made in the same order as the first, but, after passing the homeward stake, the Mischief gained on the Columbine and got in second place. Here the Acolus had a mishap and broke her throat halyards and nearly went ashore, but Capt. Hatt quickly remedied the break. In twenty-five minutes the Acolus was on her way again.

The yachts finished with the Genevieve considerably in the lead, then the Mischief, the Columbine, Trithy, Aeolus and the Gretchen, Vite and Butcher Boy out of the running.

All of the visiting yachtsmen and yachtswomen, the San Diego Rowing Club members enjoyed a hop at the Hotel del Coronado tonight. Each evening some entertainment is planned for the visitors.

Becker got $60 for the State Mon-day by apprehending two aliens who were hunting without licenses, and the men. P. Vallicella and M. An-gelo, agreed to take out license rather than be prosecuted, which was as broad as it was long, so they were spared the time and nuisance of court.

The District Attorney of San Diego county has ruled that angiers fishing in Moreno reservoir are subject to the State angling license, although that water is owned by citizens with such a supple of the State in their sovereign (collective) capacity and subject to the general laws to rule.

Every deputy on the southern division has reported unusual plenty of doves last week, and plenty of young quall. Several tell of large broods of young ducks, which indicates the stoppage of spring shooting under the "protection and propagation" policy has borne fruit also and rapidly. The scatter-gunner will do well to prepare for the biggest shooting season since feathered game became so fatally popular in Southern California, as it seems that the Fish and Game Commission is accomplishing the supposedly impossible by actually increasing the supply of sporting material in face of enormous growth in hunting interest. Monday the local office of the commission sold 450 licenses, so it appears the shooters realize what is ahead of them the rest of this year, with deer and doves the 1st of the month coming on.

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 8.— The Grand Circuit races again were postponed for today. A heavy downpour that occurred an hour before the first race was to be run, ruined the track for today. The first day's card of races is expected to be run tomorrow.

of Los Angeles and Clifford Lock-horn of Kansas City went through third-round matches today in good form. - Dawson won the feature match of the day from A. L. Green, Jr., of Chicago, runner-up to Heath Byford in the Illinois championship, 3-6, 6-3, 7-5.

Dawson tried to play the base line exclusively in the first set, but Greene was too active for him, covering the whole court. Dawson then settled to a waiting game, for he saw Greene was wearing himself out, and took the second set, evening it up by these tactics. Then came the deciding set, both fighting for every point. Dawson reached a 5-3 advantage but the Chicago boy played the net so well that it went to deuce. Green had worked so violently for the two games that he was spent and Dawson quickly put over the deciding games.

Five Californians are entered for the singles but failed to appear. They were H. V. D. Jones, William M. Johnston, national champion; Rolance Roberts, Willis Davis and Clarence Griffin, of San Francisco. Maurice McLoughlin, former champion, and Kenneth Hawkes, his protage, both of Los Angeles, are expected tomorrow. Their matches are the only ones not defaulted in the opening rounds, each being paired with Chicagoans considered easy for them.

The Supreme Lodge of Moose has indorsed the formation of a Moose bowling association in each State, and it is ultimately planned to hold a Moose world's bowling champion-ship along the lines of the American Bowling Congress.

The corn crop, estimated at 2,777,000,000 bushels, while 80,000,000 bushels less than forecast last month, is 45,000,000 bushels more than the average of the preceding five years. according to the prediction of Maj.

A. J. Copp., was discovered in the report of the Finance Committee at Monday night's meeting of the board. It had to do with use of automobiles.

One section of the report provided that an allowance of 4 cents a mile be made "to employees owning their own automobiles" and an allowance of 1½ cents per mile be made to those owning and using motorcycles. Maj. Copp pointed out that this opened the way for practically every employee of the Board of Education to use his or her auto or motorcycle in some phase of school work and that the result "might bankrupt the board." G. C. Youngman, a machinist, out of a job, who left a trail of bad checks all along the route between Oakland and Los Angeles, and who is also wanted in the Imperial Valley for floating worthless paper, was given a four-year term at Folsom by Superior Judge Willis yesterday. Youngman was an expert in the life, one of his latest performances being the purchase of an automobile with a bit of worthless paper, calling for the payment of $1170, drawn all one a bank whose location he did not even know. For said paper a local firm not only turned over a new machine to him, but also presented him with a bill of sale. Judge Willis stated, in passing sentence, that a man so clever in checks ought to be checked in some way. He followed Attorney E. E. Milliken, who finished his argument with an explanation of "corporate fletion." In this he advanced the contention that a corporation is nothing more than an artificial person and that its acts must be viewed as the acts of an individual and not as the acts of a minority or a majority of the stockholders composing the corporation. He cited decisions of the courts of many other States in support of this contention and endeavored to prove that Judge Myers, as the court, should not look beyond the "corporate fiction" to the association of individuals composing it.

ment by Federal Grand Jury, Gardena Man's Name Not Included in Bill,

Following their indictment by the Federal grand jury at San Francisco for alleged complicity in what are known as the Oregon land frauds, warrants have been issued by United States Commissioner Wallace of Fresno, for the arrest of J. L. Van Warmer of Fresno and A. L. Baker of Kernet, according to advice received yesterday at the office of United States Marshal Walton. The men are to have their preliminary hearings at Bakersfield.

The arrest of these men begins the third chapter of the Oregon land fraud cases. The first trial, involving a number of defendants, among others, Sidney L. Sperry of Gardena, resulted in a divided verdict, several of the defendants being convicted and a disagreement being reached as to others. Sperry was not convicted. The second trial at San Francisco, about a month ago, ended in a tied jury. In this case Sperry was one of the defendants.

The present arrests follow a third indictment, but Sperry is not in this case. It is alleged that the information against Van Warmer and Baker that resulted in their indictment, was secured during the hearing of the cases at Portland and San Francisco.
